VOL. XLV., No. 5.

NEW YORK, February 3, 1894.

WHOLE NO. 1149

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

A Marriage Ceremony.

By ADA CAMBRIDGE, author of "The Three Miss Kings," "Not All in Vain," etc. No. 133, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"Ada Cambridge's" novels are always interesting because the author seems always "in vein," and never loses her lightness of touch and vivacity of expression. Her new book will be found to be one of the brightest and strongest of her successful novels.

A History of Germany,

From the Earliest Times to the Present Day.

By BAYARD TAYLOR. With an Additional Chapter by MARIE HANSEN-TAYLOR. With portrait and maps. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This standard popular history of Germany has been carefully revised and brought down to date. Its value for general readers, and for the higher grade of schools and for colleges, has been generally recognized.

Natural Resources of the United States.

By JACOB HARRIS PATTON, A.M., Ph.D., author of "Four Hundred Years of American History," "Political Parties in the United States," etc. Revised, with additions. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $3.00.

"The intention of this volume is to give the American people a concise narrative of the natural resources of their own country, in all their numerous forms. . . . Attention is occasionally directed to the immense value of the natural resources of the United States when compared with those of other countries. Truth is not a braggart, and it is proper that the fact in this relation should be known, that the American people, especially the younger portion, may appreciate more fully the natural advantages of their own country."—From the Preface.

Science and Hebrew Tradition.

By THOMAS H. HUXLEY. The fourth volume of the Author's Collected Essays. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

CONTENTS: On the Method of Zadig.—The Rise and Progress of Palæontology.—Lectures on Evolution.—The Interpreters of Genesis and the Interpreters of Nature.—Mr. Gladstone and Genesis.—The Lights of the Church and the Light of Science.—Hasisadra's Adventure.—The Evolution of Theology.

The Orthoepist.

A Pronouncing Manual, containing about Four Thousand Five Hundred Words, including a considerable number of the names of Foreign Authors, Artists, etc., that are often mispronounced. By ALFRED AYRES, author of "The Verbalist," etc. Revised and enlarged edition. 18mo, cloth, $1.25.

RECENT ISSUES IN

Appletons' Town and Country Library.

A Marriage Ceremony. By ADA CAMBRIDGE, author of "The Three Miss Kings," "Not All in Vain," etc.

Earls Court. By ALEXANDER ALLARDYCE, author of "Balmoral: A Romance of the Queen's Country," etc.

A Gray Eye or So. By FRANK FRANKFORT MOORE, author of "I Forbid the Banns," etc.

Christina Chard. By MRS. CAMPBELL-PRAED, author of "December Roses," etc.

The Recipe for Diamonds. By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNÉ.

D. APPLETON & CO., 1, 3, and 5 Bond St., New York.

The Rudolph Indexer Book.

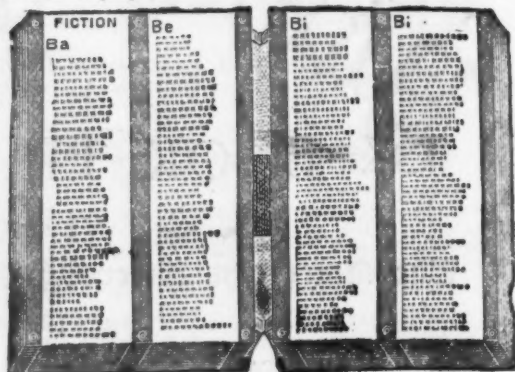

(Patented in the United States and all Foreign Countries.)

Method of Indexing is the same as that employed in the Rudolph Continuous Indexer.

The RUDOLPH INDEXER BOOK consists of a number of card-holders of heavy card-board with one or two columns on both sides. On the back edge of each card-holder are two double hinges by which means other card-holders may be flexibly connected or disconnected.

Independent book-covers are furnished, and a book may thus be formed of one card-holder and later increased as desired. If the book becomes too bulky it may be separated and by adding covers two or more independent books formed.

The Rudolph Indexer Case.

(Patented in the United States and all Foreign Countries.)

Method of Indexing is the same as that employed in the Rudolph Continuous Indexer.

The RUDOLPH INDEXER CASE consists of a series of card-holders placed on their edges in a drawer, and they may be turned as the pages of a book, exhibiting at each view 272 single-line entries.

We furnish the INDEXER CASE in one, two, four, six and eight drawers.

The capacity of each drawer is thirty card-holders. As both sides of the card-holders are used it is equal to 8160 single-line entries.

The Rudolph Card Cutter.

(Patent Pending.)

This invention is for the purpose of cutting the entries or cards for insertion in the card-holders, but can also be used for many other purposes.

It is very important that all the slips to be inserted in the card-holders be cut at perfect right angles, in order that each entry will fit exactly to the others.

An unnecessary margin of only 1-32d of an inch on the top and 1-32d of an inch on the bottom of each entry will amount to 3/16th inches of waste space on each card-holder.

The cutter will cut cardboard where spacing between the printed or written lines is 1-64th of an inch.

THE RUDOLPH CONTINUOUS INDEXER.

(PATENTED IN THE UNITED STATES AND ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES.)

(FRONT VIEW, SHOWING GLASS LID RAISED.)

(REAR VIEW, SHOWING DOOR OPEN.)

THE LIBRARIAN'S DESIDERATUM. THE MOST PERFECT INDEXER.

The RUDOLPH INDEXER SYSTEM possesses many advantages which recommend it to Publishers and Booksellers—in fact, to any one who has occasion to use lists of books, names or samples of goods, photographs, etc.

It is entirely flexible, allowing any number of entries to be placed in the INDEXER at any point.

It presents to the eye at one time as many entries as six pages of the American Catalogue.

Entries are protected from being soiled by exposure or handling.

Economy of space and economy of expenditure of both time and money.

The INDEXER stands 42 inches high and is 20 inches wide by 30 inches broad.

We shall be pleased to give further information and list of testimonials from leading librarians.

RUDOLPH INDEXER CO., 606 Arch St., Philadelphia.

Our Recent Books.

The Aim of Life.

Plain Talks to Young Men and Women.

By Rev. PHILIP S. MOXOM. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

Allegretto.

A Volume of Poems. By GERTRUDE HALL, author of "Far from To-Day." Illustrated by Oliver Herford. Small quarto, cloth, $1.50.

"Exquisite in its appeal to the eye and the imagination, 'Far from To-Day' showed an originality and grace of expression that might easily be regarded as indications of very exceptional talent; and the same qualities . . . manifest themselves in her poems—the lightest, airiest, most dashing, merry and audacious productions in verse that have of late years got themselves into print."—The Beacon.

Two Young Married Women.

By HONORÉ DE BALZAC. Translated by Katharine P. Wormeley. 12mo, half russia, $1.50.

Keynotes.

A Volume of Stories. By GEORGE EGER-TON. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

"This volume is a most delightful one. The several papers smell of the woods and fishes of elf-land and fairy-land, and there is in them a combined humor and pathos which give them a rare charm. 'A Little Gray Glove' and 'An Empty Name' are each exquisite gems."—Advertiser.

"A work of genius. Characterized by a striking naturalness. A positive moral value—such, indeed, as genuine and honest art always has."—London Speaker.

The Lover's Year=Book of Poetry.

A Collection of Love-Poems for Every Day in the Year. By HORACE PARKER CHANDLER.

FIRST SERIES. Vol. I. January to June. Vol. II. July to December.

MARRIED LIFE AND CHILD-LIFE. Vol. I. January to June. Vol. II. July to December.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in preparation a work by J. McKeen Cattell, professor of experimental psychology in Columbia College, entitled "A Course in Experimental Psychology." Laboratory instruction in experimental psychology is now given in the leading universities of America, Great Britain, Germany, and France, but, owing to the recent introduction of the subject, there is no text-book. A laboratory handbook on the lines which have been proved useful in physical and biological science will make instruction easier for the teacher and more profitable for the student, and will permit the introduction of the subject in colleges where it could not otherwise be taught. They have in press a work on the "Sources of the Constitution of the United States," by Dr. C. Ellis Stevens.

THOS. BIRCH'S SONS, 1110 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, will sell on Wednesday and Thursday, February 14 and 15, Part I of the valuable American historical library of the Hon. Frederick Bourquin, of Camden, N. J. Mr. Bourquin has been a most careful collector for the past sixty-five years, and libraries and collectors may get some special treasures at this sale. The catalogue has been compiled by Stan. V. Henkels, who will also conduct the sale, and attend to orders if so desired. The lot already catalogued contains histories of states, and of cities; church history, revolutionary history; works relating to André and Arnold; genealogies; American Bibles, prayer and hymn books; travels and expeditions in the United States, and Washingtoniana. In the next catalogue will appear books relating to the War of the Rebellion; War of 1812; the Mexican War; Indian history; early American imprints; the Quakers; American biography; general American history, etc.

HARPER & BROTHERS publish this week some notable books. The list includes Professor Charles Wright Dodge's "Introduction to Elementary Practical Biology," a work for the use of students in high-schools and colleges; "The Science of the Earth," by Sir J. William Dawson, a most interesting geological study; the second volume in the firm's series of George William Curtis's complete works, which includes Mr. Curtis's "Addresses and Reports on the Reform of the Civil Service of the United States;" and "Parisian Points of View," being a translation by Edith V. B. Matthews of nine French stories by Ludovic Halévy, with an introduction by Brander Matthews. "In Direst Peril," a new novel by David Christie Murray; "The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes," by A. Conan Doyle; a new edition of Mr. Black's "The Penance of John Logan;" and "Horace Chase," by Miss Constance Fenimore Woolson, are additions to the season's list of fiction which will be acceptable. A special interest attaches to "Horace Chase," by-the-by, as Miss Woolson's unexpected death has made it her last novel.

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

THE following is the programme, so far as it has been possible to arrange it, of the authors' readings to be held under the auspices of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, on the 6th inst., at the Carnegie Music Hall, Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, New York:

GEN. LEW WALLACE.....	Readings from "Ben-Hur" and "The Prince of India."
GEO. W. CABLE.....	"The School Examination at Grande Pointe."
JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.....	"The Inventions of the Idiot," from the new (unpublished) series of "Coffee and Repartee."
JULIA WARD HOWE.....	"The Three Giants," "A Fireside Journey," and "After the War."
PAUL DU CHAILLU.....	"Ivar the Viking."
WALLACE BRUCE.....	"Ole Bull's Christmas."

Richard Watson Gilder has kindly consented to preside.

The tickets are being rapidly taken up, the programme liberally patronized, and the boxes also are nearly all spoken for, so that from a financial point of view the entertainment will be quite satisfactory. That it will be so in other respects is vouched for, we believe, in the names of the authors who have volunteered their services.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to; under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, Lyman, ed. The Plymouth hymnal for the church, the social meeting, and the home; ed. by Lyman Abbott; with the co-operation of C: H. Morse and Herbert Vaughan Abbott. N. Y., The Outlook Co., 13 Astor Place, 1893 [1894.] c. unpag. O. hf. eath., $1.75; full leath., $2.50 and $3; full mor., $5. [219]

More than five thousand hymns and poems, and as many tunes, have been examined in making this selection of 638 hymns and 471 tunes. The selection has been based on the belief that the profoundest spiritual experience has found expression in very different schools. All schools have, therefore, been consulted, and all phases of spiritual experience are represented. The selection has been based also on the belief that beauty of form is consistent with depth of feeling, and that the most perfect forms, both in poetry and music, are not too difficult for social and public worship. A psalter for responsive reading, and some brief liturgical "orders of service," are appended to the hymns. There is also a department of spiritual songs for use in social meetings. The indexes are complete and convenient.

Allardyce, Alex. Earls court: a novel of provincial life. N. Y., Appleton, 1894. c. '93. 4+357 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., 132.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [220]

Stephen Brancepeth, the son of a rich banker in the English rural town of Earls court, exhausts his father's patience and for a time wanders from his home. He returns a rich man and buys the Dunes House, the handsomest property in the neighborhood, astonishing all his former associates, who cannot imagine where he found his money. This is explained by a complicated plot, showing some of the skeletons in the closets of the large and interesting family at Earls court.

Allingham, W. Varieties in prose. In 3 v. V. 1 and 2, Rambles by Patricius Walker. V. 3, Irish sketches, essays, etc. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1893 [1894.] 4+243; 267; 384 p. por. D. cl., per set, $6. [221]

The author is late pastor of the Associate Reformed Congregation of Baltimore. The six addresses in this volume were his last public work; he died May 28, 1893.

Beckman, Ernst. Pax and Carlino: a story; il. by Florence K. Upton. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1894. c. 2-196 p. il. D. cl., $1. [227]

A dog called Pax and a Swedish boy named Carlos Ros, or Carlino, are the heroes. Carlino is stolen from his home by Pax's mistress, and the dog and child fraternize on account of their similar misfortunes. Their adventures in Italy and the United States, with Carlino's temporary adoption by a bishop, his running away to find his parents, his reunion with Pax, his voyage on the Allonia, and his American experiences, are described in a story both humorous and pathetic.

Bierce, Ambrose. Can such things be? N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1894.] c. '93. 4+320 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 146.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c. [228]

Thirty-three short stories dealing with murder, supernatural visitations, and other weird and ghastly themes. They are entitled: The death of Halpin Frayser; The mocking-bird; My favorite murder; The story of a conscience; The secret of Macgarger's Gulch; A psychological wreck; The night's doings at Deadmans; Mysterious disappearances, etc.

Blümner, H. The home life of the ancient Greeks; from the German, by Alice Zimmern. N. Y., The Cassell Pub. Co., 1893 [1894.] 15+548 p. il. D. cl., $2. [229]

Not an absolutely literal translation of Dr. Blümner's text; such slight alterations have been made as the different and more concise character of the English language seemed to demand. Chapters on: Costume; Birth and infancy; Education; Marriage and women; Daily life within and without the house; Meals and social entertainments; Sickness and physicians, death and burial; Gymnastics; Music and dancing; Religious worship; Public festivals; The theatre; War and seafaring; Agriculture, trade, and handicraft; Slavery.

Box, T. Practical treatise on the strength of materials, including their elasticity and resistance to impact. 3d ed. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1893 [1894.] 525 p. 8°, cl., $7.25. (Corr. title.) [230]

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

Bumpus, Hermon C. A laboratory course in invertebrate zoölogy. 2d ed. rev. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1893 [1894.] c. '92, '93. 6+157 p. D. cl., $1. [236]

In the preparation of this book the author has had in mind the requirements of a class of students who are pursuing a course of laboratory work in invertebrate zoölogy. An effort has been made to direct the work, without, at the same time, actually telling the student all that there is to be learned from the specimen. In the appendix a few words are given regarding laboratory methods, etc.

Butt, Beatrice May. Keith Deramore. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892 [1894.] 4+379 p. 12°, (Longmans' paper lib., no. 3.) pap., 50 c. [237]

Keith Deramore was a proud, undemonstrative, rather good-looking young fellow, with a weakness for flirting, yet not bad withal. He was an officer in the British army, and had just returned from India when the story opens. His character is developed through several circumstances—chiefly a hopeless love for a good woman and his mother's unselfish devotion—his virtues and best traits coming to the surface.

Campbell, Ja. Dykes. Samuel Taylor Coleridge: a narrative of the events of his life. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1894. 319 p. por. 8°, cl., $3. [238]

An account of the life and exploits of "Buffalo Bill," and also of the lives, etc., of his companions.

Coffin, C. E. The gist of whist: being a concise guide to the modern scientific game; embracing the improved method of American leads and a complete glossary of the common and technical terms; to which is added the laws of whist as revised at the Third American Whist Congress. N. Y., J. Selwin Tait & Sons, 1894. c. '93. 12+100 p. nar. S. cl., 75 c. [240]

The object of the book, as stated in the introductory, is "to reduce the precepts and principles of the standard game to convenient and practical form, so arranged and systematized that its theory may be easily comprehended, its rules quickly committed, and its practice readily acquired." In pursuance of this object, the author has examined all the standard authorities, and presented the gist of the whole subject in the least possible compass and in the most interesting form. It embraces the improved method of American leads and the laws of whist as revised by the recent Whist Congress at Chicago, so that the technical part of the work is in accordance with the latest authorization.

Craig, Oscar J. Ouiatanon: a study in Indiana history. Indianapolis, Ind., The Bowen-Merrill Co., 1893 [1894.] 32 p. O. (Indiana Historical Society publications, v. 2, no. 8.) pap., 50 c. [241]

De Peyster, J. Watts, ["Anchor" pseud.] Waterloo: the campaign and battle—Blücher, Wellington, Napoleon. N. Y., Charles H. Ludwig & Co., 1893 [1894.] 32 p. map, O. pap. (printed for private circulation.) [244]

The author dissects Napoleon's tactics and character in a dispassionate, scientific and impartial manner, and seems to prove that though the battle of Waterloo was by no means fought by the Napoleon of 1795, or even of 1805, it was lost by Napoleon's own lack of foresight and almost wilful waste of time. Besides a description of the battle the author gives clear-cut estimates of Blücher, Wellington, and Napoleon.

De Peyster, J. Watts, ["Anchor" pseud.] Waterloo. N. Y., J. Watts De Peyster, 1893 [1894.] 14 p. Q. pap. (printed for private circulation.) [245]

Devotes more space to biographical data relating to Napoleon than the work mentioned above. In concise and terse characterization of the subject the sketch almost parallels Taine's estimate of Napoleon. Reprinted from the Lancaster (Pa.) College Student.

Dodgson, C. L., ["Lewis Carroll," pseud.] Sylvie and Bruno concluded; il. by Harry Furniss. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1894. 423 p. 12°, cl., $1.50. [246]

Fortier, Alcée. Histoire de la littérature Française. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., [1894.] c. '93. 10+351 p. S. cl., $1. [249]

A comprehensive sketch of French literature giving special prominence to the two centuries between the Renaissance and romantic periods. An index of all authors cited with dates of births and deaths is included. The writer is professor in Tulane University of Louisiana at New Orleans. Wholly in French without notes

Frapan, Ilse, (pseud.) God's will, and other stories; tr. by Helen A. Macdonnell. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1894.] c. 2+183 p. nar. D. (Unknown lib., no. 28.) cl., 50 c. [250]

A quaint story of lowly life among Dutch peasants. The heroine is left motherless at fourteen. She takes hold of the family burdens, but does it in a hard, sad way, until advised by her pastor to see "God's will" in all things. Her father arranges a marriage between herself and a cousin "of the earth, earthy." At the marriage altar she says "no" where "yes" was expected by the reader as fully as by the attending friends, a point giving great literary merit to the romance. The other stories are: "Our journey," "A Christmas story," "The first," and "The scorcher."

Freytag, Gustav. Karl der Grosse, nebst anderen Bildern aus dem Mittelalter; ed. with introd. and notes, by A. B. Nichols. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., [1894.] 19+200 p. S. cl., 75 c. [251]

Selected from the first volume of Freytag's "Bilder aus der deutschen Vergangenheit" for intrinsic value and interest and also because the three essays consist largely of direct and simple narrative, adapted for the second year of the study of German. The editor is instructor in German at Harvard University.

Mr. Wayt is a minister with a great gift of oratory, unbounded self-appreciation, and total lack of consideration for his wife and five children. The wife adores him; his wife's sister keeps the house together during the many changes of parishes. At the time of the story he is settled in a New Jersey country parish. A crippled daughter is made a very interesting character. By chance the family skeleton is seen by the lover of Mr. Wayt's wife's sister. Two other stories are included: "A social success" and "The articles of separation."

The writer had been engaged to superintend some dyeing processes in Woodbine. Here he came into contact with Hiram Golf, the pastor of the church, a Mr. Van Brunt, and a few other choice spirits. They formed "The Fireside Club," in which they discussed matters of the life here and the life hereafter and gave each other hopeful, practical encouragement of all kinds. Van Brunt, who had lost his wife and ten-year-old boy on the same day, was brought from a state bordering on insanity to one of peace and hope. The writer is former pastor of the Church of the Messiah, N. Y. City, and the author of "Hiram Golf's religion," published in 1893 anonymously.

Since it has been found that animals can and do live even at the greatest depths of the ocean, scientists have been continually adding to the valuable literature of that subject; their knowledge given in detail is generally embraced in the reports of the scientific expeditions fitted out by our own and foreign governments, and in memoirs and notes scattered through the English and foreign scientific journals. This little book brings together in a small compass some of the more important facts and considerations that are included in this great mass of literature, and presents them in a form for popular reading.

Hobbes, J: Oliver, [pseud. for Mrs. Craigie.] A bundle of life. N. Y., J. Selwin Tait & Sons, 1894. c. 5+155 p. nar. D. (The pseudonym lib., no. 6.) cl., 50 c. [262]

Teresa Warcop, an English heiress, who is accredited with being rather plain in personal appearance, falls in love with Sidney Wiche, an aspirant for the hand of Lady Mallinger, a very young widow. Just after the latter accepts Wiche as her suitor, a quarrel between the two rivals and an interview between Wiche and his betrothed causes some diversion, and brings about the unexpected ending of a decidedly unromantic love-story.

James, C: Ashworth. Mining royalties: their practical operation and effect. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1893 [1894.] 2-277 p. sq. O. cl., $1.75. [265]

Based wholly upon the volumes of evidence published by the Royal Commission on Mining Royalties. Presents the precise issues raised and contested before the Commission. The constant recurrence of views and statement in newspapers and speeches which the Commission has clearly established to be wholly erroneous, it is thought, calls for such a book within the comprehension and purse limits of many debarred from the Blue-Books. Refers wholly to laws of the United Kingdom.

Jones, Rev. Jenkin Lloyd, comp. A chorus of faith as heard in the Parliament of Religions, held in Chicago, Sept. 10-27, 1893; with an introd. by Jenkin Lloyd Jones. Chic., The Unity Publishing Co., 1893 [1894.] c. '93. 3-333 p. D. cl., $1.25. [266]

This compilation contains one hundred and thirty-seven extracts from one hundred and fifteen different authors, all of them taken from the utterances of the main Parliament. It is a book with a purpose. The compilers have selected "such passages as indicate the essential unity of all religious faiths at their best, the fundamental harmony in human nature made apparent by the noblest utterances of its representatives." The extracts are all preceded by poems from Whittier, Emerson, Browning, and others.

Most of the story has "The Hague" as the stage for its characters. High life means both the upper social circles of the world with their ambitions, false aspirations, tarnished idols, etc., and the upward reachings of true souls for the greatest good they can accomplish. There is strong writing against priests and their methods. The author says: "From the religions of our inheriting, our imbibing, our creating—from all religions but of thine implanting—deliver us, Oh Lord." Worldliness and selfishness, true love of one's neighbor, and self-sacrifice are all represented by strong characters.

"No apology is needed for an edition of Thomas Paine's writings, but rather for the tardiness of its appearance. For although there have been laborious and useful collections of his most famous works, none of them can be fairly described as adequate. While Paine's American writings are historical documents, their value as such is not limited to the mere record or interpretation of events. They possess very great value for the students of political institutions and constitutional development."—Editor's Introduction.

Parker, Gay. La Belle Creole. Chic., E. A. Weeks & Co., [1894.] 6-339 p. D. (Melbourne ser., no. 14.) pap., 25 c. [294]

Episodes in the past lives of John Ross and Louis de Jarnette, exile them from home; meeting in the Barbadoes, they are astounded by their wonderful personal resemblance to each other, and finally on the strength of an apparent coincidence form a friendship which ends with the death of de Jarnette, when circumstances tempt Ross to personate his dead friend. The consequences of this act are both startling and sensational, especially the scene which he enacts in New Orleans with Lucille de Guarcia (La Belle Creole).

An important contribution to the literature of Biblical criticism by the author of "The people's Bible." It presents fair and brief statements of the various contentions of higher criticism, and answers them seriatim with the beliefs of the older school of Biblical learning. For comparison and emphasis, the opposing views are printed largely in parallel columns. The headings of the chapters are: The word of God; The permanent quantity; The origins; The living word; The word taught; Fundamentals; Notes and comments.

The story describes what a few months did in the lives of certain men and women. Much of this time was spent in Norway by these people of social position and refined artistic tastes. The swing of the pendulum is the fluctuation of opinion and feeling in a young author's heart and mind as to the true character of a girl who has jilted his dearest friend. The narrative ends with "a note of interrogation instead of a full stop."

Christina Chard, a curious, contradictory character, comes into possession of a great sum of money. Her portrait is painted by the artist of the hour in London, which brings her into contact with the crowd of fashionable, gifted people who haunt studios. The story also introduces many schemes in which capitalists employ money. The idea of the story is credited to the artist George H. Boughton, to whom the book is dedicated.

Prothero, Rowland Edmund, and Bradley, G: Granville (Dean.) Life and correspondence of Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, late dean of Westminster, by Rowland E. Prothero; with the co-operation and sanction of G. G. Bradley, D.D. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1894. c. '93. 2 v., 26+536; 6+600 p. pors. O. cl., $8. [302]

Since Dean Stanley's death in 1881, over twelve years ago, it has been a matter of surprise that no adequate biography had appeared of one who had held so prominent a part in the ecclesiastical literary and social history of more than a generation. The present work explains the delay; out of three literary executors appointed by Mr. Stanley, two died after having done a great deal of work on his papers; the third was too busy to take the matter then in hand. The Dean of Westminster, Stanley's old friend, then offered to sift the material, and begun the work. After some years spent on it, his health broke down, and it became necessary to find another biographer, and Mr. Prothero was chosen, and all the unfinished work of the previous writers was placed in his possession. The material that forms the basis of this work, comes mostly from Stanley himself. He was the most indefatigable of letter-writers, from his early days at Rugby, Oxford, and Cambridge until the end of his life. Next in importance were the letters addressed to him, and communications from his friends, recalling traits and anecdotes, written after his death. The work contains a list of Stanley's publications, covering eight pages, which does not claim to be an exhaustive or a scientific bibliography.

Ram, Mrs. Abel. The Little Sisters of the Poor. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1894. 5+318 p. D. cl., $2. [304]

The life of Jeanne Jugan, a holy peasant woman, generally thought to have been the foundress of the "Little Sisters of the Poor," an account of which order serves as a frame to Jeanne's pathetic story. She was the first quêteuse, or collector of alms, and her name is forever connected with the order, as it was her small beginnings which laid its foundations, though she was not its real foundress. She was born in France in 1793. A history of the various houses of the order in many countries is given.

Rand, Silas Tertius, D.D. Legends of the Micmacs. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1894 [1893.] c. 29+452 p. por. O. (Wellesley philological publications.) cl., $3.50. [305]

Gathered by Dr. Rand during the forty years he spent as a missionary among the Micmac Indians of Nova Scotia; the stories were related to him in Micmac, by the native Indians, and then translated and written down by him in English. The collection is valuable to the philologist, the anthropologist, and the ethnologist. It is believed the legends show traces of the Northmen, as a closer study of the language of the Micmacs may reveal the impress of the early north invaders. Introductory are a sketch of the life of the Rev. Dr. Rand, a list of his works covering eight pages, showing his great industry as a linguist while among the Indians, and a paper on "The manners, customs, language, and literature of the Micmac Indians in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island."

The one hundred and three sonnets and eleven lyrics with which Dante Gabriel Rossetti chose to build his 'House of life' are here set forth according to their obvious design. Those used in the volume of mdccclxxx. are reproduced as they then appeared, not as they have appeared since in the volume of mdccclxxx. The deplorable circumstance is well known which led to the too sensitive withdrawal of one of the sequence and to the revision of others: a mistaken sacrifice of beauty to a mistakenly imposed ideal. The makers of this edition revert by choice to the poet's original plan of work. As 'The house of life' stood in Rossetti's mind, so it stands, once again, in its innocence and perfection."—Preface. The volume is embellished with three ornamental borders and 114 initial letters designed by B. G. Goodhue.

This book fulfils a want long felt for a work devoted exclusively to marine engineering and in which the subject was treated thoroughly. The authors say: "While we have been careful to make the book of special value to marine engineers, we have omitted nothing, so far as we know, that would be of use and importance to others having to do with ships and their machinery."

Southworth, Mrs. E. D. E. N. Gertrude Haddon [sequel to the "Rejected bride"]; il. by Hugh M. Eaton. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1894.] c. '74-'94. 5-416 p. D. (Ledger lib., no. 101.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [318]

In the third and last volume of a series published under the general title of "Only a girl's heart," Gertrude Haddon is the heroine. The mystery surrounding her birth is revealed, and the incidents following her separation from her husband shortly after a very romantic marriage are given with her adventures on land and sea and a description of her return to Summit Manor.

Stechhan, Otto. Lieben und leben: gedichte. Chic., F. P. Kenkel, 1894. c. '93. 4+126 p. D. hf. cl., 75 c. [319]

These poems have mostly been published in the German papers in Chicago. They are chiefly of a subjective nature. Published in English as "I fear thee not."

Stone, Ja. S., D.D. Woods and dales of Derbyshire. Phil., G. W. Jacobs & Co., 103 S. 15th St., 1894. c. '93. 3-180 p. por. il. Q. cl., net, $3.75. [320]

The author is a well-known clergyman of Philadelphia. "Once in May," he writes, "and again in August, in the year 1802, it fell to my lot to wander through the woods, valleys, and towns of Derbyshire. The pleasure I felt and the knowledge I gained on these occasions I have sought to suggest in these pages." The work is handsomely gotten up, being printed on linen paper with wide margins and uncut edges, and fully illustrated. An appendix contains some of the ballads popular in Derbyshire.

Superfluous woman (A.) N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1894.] c. 3+336 p. D. cl., $1. [321]

A study in heredity, in the form of a novel; thought to be by the author of "The heavenly twins." The heroine is a "professional beauty," who has been taught to think the highest happiness is found in a marriage of wealth and position. She rebels against the attempts of her aunt to marry her to Lord Heriot, the "greatest catch in Europe," a worn-out roué, the last of his line of degenerate ancestors, and suddenly disappears from London society, hiding herself in an isolated spot in the Scotch Highlands. Here she falls in love with a noble type of the Scotch peasant, whom her pride prevents her marrying. After a short struggle she returns to her old life and marries Lord Heriot. This marriage, with its dreadful consequences, is the author's opportunity for many plainly expressed physiological truths. The heroine is a painfully powerful character-study.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 3, 1894.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CHARACTERISTICS OF MODERN ENGLISH LITERATURE.

UNDER the title "English Literature of the Victorian Age" Mr. Frederic Harrison contributes to the February Forum an excellent summary of the changes in style, tendency, and aims that have been wrought in English literature during the last fifty-seven years. Using the term Victorian Age as a convenient label for the period 1837-1894, and confining himself to a consideration of the literature produced in Great Britain during those years, he demonstrates with considerable effectiveness the characteristics that so widely differentiate the literature of this period from that of the preceding years. Taking the accession of Victoria in 1837 to be a purely arbitrary point, and, in itself, not a significant one, it is nevertheless interesting to note the remarkable contrast between the literature produced before and after that year. At that time nearly all the great writers of the past century—Scott, Byron, Shelley, Keats, Coleridge, Lamb, Sheridan, Hazlitt, Crabbe, and Cobbett—were dead; there still remained Wordsworth, Southey, Campbell, Moore, Jeffrey, Sidney Smith, De Quincey, Miss Edgeworth, Miss Mitford, and Leigh Hunt; but these had produced their best work. Writers belonging equally to the Victorian and Georgian ages were Landor, Bulwer, Disraeli, Hallam, and Milman. Within the period of the reign of Victoria is found, with a few trifling exceptions, the whole work of Tennyson, the Brownings, Thackeray, Dickens, the Brontës, George Eliot, the Kingsleys, Trollope, Spencer, Mill, Darwin, Ruskin, Grote, Macaulay, Freeman, Froude, Lecky, Milman, Green, Matthew Arnold, Symonds, Rossetti, Swinburne, Morris, and some younger writers still in their prime and promise.

A glance over these names and then at the names preceding them emphasizes at once the distinctive characteristic of the literature of the Victorian age. "This is the age of sociology," says Mr. Harrison. "Its central achievement has been the revelation of social law." It is as far removed from the Virgilian and Ciceronian style of the age of Pope and Addison, Gray and Johnson, as it is from the tempestuous tragedy and romance, mystery and legend that marked the days of Byron, Shelley, Scott, and Coleridge. The social earnestness of the time is felt throughout its literature. Carlyle's histories overflow with social and political rhapsody and invective; Dickens waged warfare against social abuses in nearly all his novels; George Eliot brought her genius to the analysis of human nature; Tennyson has woven theological controversy into lyric verse; Ruskin devotes his deepest earnestness to the preaching of social equality and the brotherhood of man; the most popular novels of the day deal with subtle questions of psychology and problems of social ethics. The central note of the literature of the Victorian age may well be described as "the dominant influence of sociology—enthusiasm for social truths as an instrument of social reform." Mr. Harrison sums up its characteristics briefly. It is "scientific, subjective, introspective, historical, archæological; full of vitality, versatility, and diligence; intensely personal, defiant of all law, of standards, of convention; laborious, exact, but often indifferent to grace, symmetry or color; it is learned, critical, cultured; with all its ambition and its fine feeling, it is unsympathetic to the highest forms of the imagination, and quite alien to the drama of action." This change in the tone of literature he traces back to the death of Scott in 1832, the year of the Reform Act, and in this act, heralding the social and legislative revolution of the last sixty years, he finds the political and social cause of the great change.

Another notable point is the diversity of style that now prevails in literature; as a matter of fact there is no "style," no standard, no conventional type or good "model." It is an age of "go-as-you-please," every man speaking what he will in his own words, from the almost perfect prose of Thackeray, the flawless polish of "In Memoriam," to the original genius and extravagance of Carlyle, or the commonplace, ill-digested, nerveless style too frequently characteristic of modern scientific research.

Of later years there has been a rapid increase of the scientific and sociological spirit in literature. Dividing the period from the death of Scott in 1832 into two equal parts, we have two periods of thirty-one years each, and it is a noteworthy fact that the purely literary product of the first period (1832-1863) is superior to the purely literary product of the second period (1863-1894). The former gave us the best work of Tennyson, the Brownings, Carlyle, Thackeray, Dickens, Bulwer, the Brontës, George Eliot, Kingsley, Macaulay, Kinglake, Ruskin; the second gave, in the main, Darwin, Spencer, Huxley, John Morley, Matthew Arnold, Freeman, Bryce, Green, Symonds, Rossetti, Morris, Swinburne. This division of the literature of the age into two periods furnishes a remarkable demonstration of the change wrought during the later years. In the first period poetry, romance, the critical, imaginative, and pictorial power predominate; the second is dominated by philosophy, science, politics, and history.

It is the growth and present predominance of the practical, scientific, and social spirit that in Mr. Harrison's opinion has checked the highest imaginative and dramatic genius. He finds no poetry to place beside the "Prometheus" of Shelley, no drama to equal the "School for Scandal;" romance has been ousted by reality, the "subjective" has displaced the "objective." Especially he cites the "almost entire disappearance of the historical romance in spite of the immense extension of historical study and archaeological revival;" and points out "Harold," "Esmond" and "Romola,"—all of them forty years old or more, and none of them unqualified successes—as the highest examples of historical romance produced during the age, and unapproached by later historical fiction. Strangely enough he makes no mention of "The Cloister and the Hearth," which certainly ranks with the three books cited; but that, too, is more than thirty years old and but strengthens his deductions.

The conclusion to which this survey of the literature of the Victorian age leads is not only interesting but seems thoroughly well founded. Briefly it is that "the predominance of sociology, the restless rapidity of modern life, and the omnipresence of material activity fully account for the special character of modern literature. Literature is no longer 'bookish'—but practical, social, propagandist. It is full of life—but it is a dispersive, analytic, erratic form of vitality. It has a most fastidious taste in form—but it often flings the critical spirit aside in its ardor to convince and to inspire. It is industrious, full of learning and research—but it regards its learning as an instrument of research, not as an end of thought. It has no 'standard,' no 'model,' no 'best writer'—and yet it has a curious faculty for reviving every known form and imitating any style. It is intensely historical, but so accurately historical that it is afraid to throw the least color of imagination around its history. It has consummate poetic feeling and copious poetic gifts—but it has now no single poet of the first rank. It has infinite romantic resources, and an army of skilful novelists—and yet it has no single writer living to be named beside the great romancers of the nineteenth century."

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY TO LEAVE ITS OLD QUARTERS.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY, after so long occupying the site at the corner of Nassau and Spruce Streets, New York, will remove up-town some time in April, about which time the work of tearing down their present quarters will be begun.

"If our plans are carried out," said the Rev. Dr. William A. Rice, one of the secretaries of the Society, to a representative of the press, "nothing will be left of the present building on May 1. The cost of the new structure (which will be not less than fifteen stories high, divided into offices, with stores on the ground floor) will be probably between $500,000 and $600,000.

"The Society has felt for a long time that it was not getting the returns that it should from so valuable a property as this. I cannot say where we will move our book-store to. We are looking at property between Twentieth and Twenty-third Streets, in the neighborhood of Broadway. It is yet undetermined where we will have our manufacturing establishment, but it will go further up-town into a less expensive neighborhood. Our managers have been looking at property on the east side near Twentieth Street, I believe. We shall never bring our manufacturing back here again. Its removal will be permanent. But I would not say that our sales-rooms might not be located in our new building when it is finished. The present expectation is that our 'sky-scraper' will be built within a year ready for occupancy. In any case only a small part of the new structure will be used by the American Tract Society. The most of it will be for rent. The new building will occupy the whole of our present site, eighty feet in Nassau Street, and about one hundred and fifty-five feet in Spruce Street."

THE LAW AS TO CANCELLED ORDERS.

So much has been written and said on the cancellation of orders and the return of goods once purchased that the rights of both seller and buyer are becoming more clearly defined under the law. Both parties have certain rights, and the suits growing out of the infringement of these rights are having a good effect, at least in the way of defining precisely what one can or cannot do under the law. Many retail merchants have an idea that they can refuse to accept goods at any time after ordered. Such would not seem to be the case under the decision of the Supreme Court of Georgia, in the case of McCord vs. Laidley, where a firm bought a car-load of goods to be shipped and paid for on delivery. The seller shipped the car and forwarded a draft. The draft was presented before the car arrived, and payment refused, and the buying firm notified the seller that he had violated the contract by demanding payment before the delivery of the goods, and that they would not accept the goods when they arrived. When the car arrived it was tendered to the buyers and they refused it. It was then sold for what it would bring, which was much less than the contract price. The buyers were held by the court to be liable for the deficit. The decision is not only good law, but sound common sense, and would undoubtedly be cited as a precedent in all similar cases.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS IN RELATION TO BOOKS, ETC.

THE summary statement of the imports and exports of the United States for the month ending November 30, 1893, and for the eleven months ending the same, compared with the corresponding periods of 1892 (corrected to January 2, 1894), makes the following showing as regards books, etc.:

OBITUARY NOTES.

CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON, author of "The Happy Valley," "Anne," "East Angels," and other sketches, novels, and poems, came to her death in Venice on the 23d ult. by falling out of the window in the house where she was living. Miss Woolson was suffering with the grip, and was delirious when the accident occurred. She was born in Claremont, N. H., in 1848, and her mother was a niece of James Fenimore Cooper. She afterward lived in Cleveland, New York, and Florida. Upon the death of her mother in February, 1879, Miss Woolson went abroad, where she spent the rest of her life, returning to this country but once in the fifteen years, and then only for a short visit. Her life abroad was spent mainly in Venice, Rome, Sorrento, Germany, and Switzerland. She was buried in the Protestant cemetery in Rome, near Shelley's grave.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MISS MARY WAKEFIELD, a friend and neighbor of Mr. Ruskin, is preparing a collection of all of his scattered sayings about the art of music.

JULIAN RALPH, the clever journalist, has been annoyed for more than a year by an impostor who has been using his name in the South and West. So cleverly has his pseudo double managed the deception, that it has taken nearly two years to discover and expose him.

MRS. MARY (Montgomery Lamb) SINGLETON, who was married a couple of weeks ago to Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador at Constantinople, it will be remembered, is the lady who has published a book or two of graceful verses under the pseudonym of "Violet Fane."

F. MARION CRAWFORD has nearly completed a new novel that is to be published by Macmillan & Co. late in the spring. The novel deals with American life, and there is a rumor that Mr. Crawford has introduced an American family whose fortunes he will follow in several novels as he did those of the "Saracinesca" in his Roman series. The novel is to be illustrated by Alfred Brennan.

THE appointment of Miss Louise Imogen Guiney, the literary woman and poet, as postmaster of Auburndale, Mass., came as almost a birthday gift to her, for it came within a few days of an anniversary. Miss Guiney is said to be an excellent musician as well as a charming poet, to be fluent in the French and Italian languages, a good Latin scholar, and highly versed in English literature.

THE late Miss Woolson is said to have left no unpublished manuscripts with the exception of one or two in the possession of Harper's Magazine. Her short stories were in great demand and rarely remained long in the publisher's hands before being printed. "A Transplanted Boy," in the February Harper's, was written two years ago, and is one of a series of sketches of Italian life, of which enough were finished to make a small volume.

SOME of Mr. Theodore Child's personal friends in New York and in Paris have desired to establish in some useful way a memorial to him; and for that purpose a fund now amounting to about 5700 karans, or say $710, has been entrusted to the American Presbyterian Mission in Tabriz, Persia, where Mr. Child was stricken with the cholera, and most kindly cared for. A letter from Dr. Mary E. Bradford, dated at Tabriz on Dec. 11, says: "The suggestion as to a hospital room or bed to be called by Mr. Child's name seems to meet with general approval. We hope the way may be open for us to have a hospital and see this carried out."

THE author of that most extraordinary book, "Keynotes" (published in this country by Roberts Bros.), whose feminine qualities were more than suspected, notwithstanding the masculine pseudonym, "George Egerton," is said to be Mrs. Clairmonte. Says one of her English reviewers: "The stories are full of Norway; the witchery of the north has got into the writer's blood. She has, too, one would say, come considerably under the influence of Norwegian modern writers, notably of Bjørnsen. One is reminded again and again of 'The Heritage of the Kurts' in reading 'Under Northern Sky.' All the tales are wayward, incalculable, and, whoever may have influenced them, original. But passion in its narrower sense is not the motive of them all. Very charming is 'The Spell of the White Elf,' full of present-day allusions and of the present-day spirit; the tale of how a little child upset all the ways and habits of a modern household, and how the household rejoiced thereat."

"THE news that Mrs. Langtry is writing a novel, which comes over the cable with the regularity of the recurring seasons," says the New York Sun, "has lost something of its novelty, but it is true, nevertheless. The book was begun nearly four years ago, and several writers of distinction in London have tinkered at it in one way or another. At first Mrs. Langtry decided to have a secretary and dictate her memoirs to him, but after several unsuccessful trials she gave this plan up, and when she returned to London she tried the scheme of giving her general ideas to a journalist, and having him clothe them in attractive English, but after he had finished about one-third of the book she became so thoroughly dissatisfied with it that she burned it up. Then she started in on the work of writing it herself. Edmund Yates was called in from time to time in consultation. Sometimes she puts the manuscript away and does not touch it for months. Again she will write industriously for several weeks upon the work. Nearly all the London publishers have attempted to get hold of the book, but without success. Mrs. Langtry will publish, circulate, and advertise the volume herself."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & Co. will publish some time in March the first number of a quarterly magazine of bibliography. It will consist of a series of papers by writers of authority on various points of book-lore. The publishers will imitate Octave Uzanne's example in fixing beforehand that the magazine is to last for three years only, ending, no matter what its success, with the appearance of the twelfth number in December, 1896. Subscribers will thus know from the first when their set will be complete. The following articles will appear in early numbers: "English Illuminated mss." by Maunde Thompson; "The Stationers at the Sign of the Trinity," by Gordon Duff; "The Books of Queen Christina of Sweden," by Charles Elton; "The Illustrated Books of Augsburg and Ulm," by William Morris; and "On Some Engravers of English Book-Plates," by W. J. Hardy. Among the other contributors to the magazine will be Austin Dobson, Dr. Copinger, Dr. Garnett, Chancellor Christie, Messrs. Graves, Jenkinson, A. Lang, Madan, Fuller Maitland, Fairfax Murray, Russell Martineau, Pollard, W. B. Squire, Tedder, Uzanne, Warner, H. Wheatley, and Weale.

PROF. W. M. SLOAN, of Princeton College, who has been for several years past gathering material for a complete and exhaustive life of Napoleon Bonaparte, has almost finished the writing of the work. It will be published serially in The Century, beginning with the November number this year. This life of Napoleon will be profusely illustrated, the only difficulty in this regard being the enormous amount of material. Of portraits of the emperor alone there are more than enough to fill the book. Only the most important and most rare will be selected for the purpose.

STEAD'S Daily Paper, the unique plan of which was so much discussed, has been abandoned. The hundred and fifty thousand subscribers did not respond, and Mr. Stead simply says: "Therefore the public does not want it, and I shall not start it."

The Contributors' Magazine, published privately for the members of the Contributors' Club, of Chicago, has reached its third issue.

PERSONAL NOTES.

T. J. BRETT, who has for the past ten years represented A. C. McClurg & Co. on the road, severed his relations with that house at the beginning of the year. C. G. Acret, who has represented C. M. Barnes on the road for several years, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

E. A. LAWSON, for some time manager of the book and stationery departments of Siegel, Cooper & Co., of Chicago, and before that buyer for C. M. Barnes, has severed his connection with the former firm to become an active partner in the firm of E. A. Weeks & Co.

T. PERCY SIDDALL, late with S. A. Maxwell & Co., and at one time with Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger, succeeds Mr. Lawson at Siegel, Cooper & Co's.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Russell Publishing Company, of 196 Summer Street, has made an assignment to H. W. Brag. This company was organized in 1884, Dana Estes being president and P. J. Andrews treasurer. Since its incorporation the company has published Our Little Ones, and a year ago last July started another magazine called The Whole Family. Before this new publication was fairly established the troublous times of 1893 came on and continued so long that the company was at last forced to assign. A statement of assets and liabilities is now being prepared.

CONNERSVILLE, IND.—A book and stationery store has been started here by I. B. & Adam Young.

DEFIANCE, O.—Schrack & Ferguson, booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

DENVER, COLO.—E. R. Ball purchased the W. H. Lawrence & Co. book and stationery house which was recently sold at auction.

DENVER, COLO.—The Denver Book and Stationery Co. has been incorporated to deal in books and stationery; capital stock, $15,000.

DULUTH, MINN.—E. Norelius, bookseller, has sold out.

FITCHBURG, MASS.—James Donovan will shortly open a book and paper store.

FREDONIA, KAN.—Bogart & White, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

GRANVILLE, ALA.—A book and stationery store has been opened here by H. H. Mallett & Co.

LEWISBURG, PA.—D. P. Higgins will close out his book and stationery store either by private sale or auction.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Halloway & Smith, booksellers, have assigned.

MASILLON, OHIO.—The partnership of the Bahney-Spalding Company, booksellers, 20 East Main Street, has been dissolved by mutual consent, Arthur E. Spalding retiring.

NEW YORK CITY.—The firm of Wm. F. Etherington, dealer in paper, etc., has become Etherington & Hapgood, and has removed to the "Times Building."

NEW YORK CITY.—Hurst & Co. have removed their office and sales-room to 135 Grand Street, directly opposite their old quarters. Their shipping will be done from their manufacturing department at 265 and 267 Cherry Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Manufacturers' Publishing Co., 150 Fifth Avenue, has become insolvent, and John R. Huff, cashier of the Methodist Book Concern, has been appointed temporary receiver to wind up the concern. The company succeeded to a part of the business formerly carried on by the Armstrong & Knauer Publishing Company. It published a directory of the manufacturers of the United States, classified according to trades, which was printed for them by the Methodist Book Concern, which is now the largest creditor of the company.

NEW YORK CITY.—Saalfeld & Fitch, having made satisfactory arrangements with their creditors, have resumed business at their old quarters.

NEW YORK CITY.—Marcus Ward & Co., limited, will remove on February 1 to Sixth Avenue and Twentieth Street.

PITTSBURG, PA.—The large department store of Flieshman & Co. was closed by the sheriff on the Saturday before Christmas. They had a well-stocked book and stationery department.

POMONA, CAL.—Mitchell & Pillig, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—J. & A. McMillan, booksellers and stationers, have made an assignment.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—The business of Annie Fairbanks, bookseller, is in possession of the mortgagee.

TOLEDO, O.—F. R. Frey Co., booksellers, have failed.

TORONTO, CANADA.—The statement of the Rose Publishing Company shows liabilities of $25,632.03, and assets of $26,442.89, the assets being merchandise, $22,724.75; furniture, $87.85, and book accounts $3630.29.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Andrew Baxendie, 10 St. Giles St., Edinburgh, Miscellaneous. (No. 47, 1307 titles.)—E. F. Bonaventure, 45 W. 31st St., N. Y., Fine books. (New ser., No. 1, 148 titles.)—Wm. R. Hill, 5 E. Monroe St., Chicago, First editions extra illustrated, etc. (No. 2, 382 titles.)—Luzac & Co., 46 Gt. Russell St., London, W. C., Oriental list. (V. 4, No. 12); also, Rough list of second-hand books on Asia, Africa, etc. (No. 5, 128 titles.)—Joel Munsell's Sons, Albany, N. Y., American historical and genealogical publications. (4 p. 8°.)—Bernard Quaritch, 15 Piccadilly, London, Manuscripts, arranged in chronological order and books illustrating the science of palæography. (No. 138, 244 titles); Manuscripts may be classed under various headings: as being literary texts before the invention of printing, as being artistically valuable for their illuminations, as documents for palæography, as the crude materials for history, or even as autographs. Of all of these there are examples in this catalogue, though Mr. Quaritch has preferred to arrange his mss. in strict chronological order, which of course cuts across other divisions. He has, however, prefixed a classified index according to subjects, and called attention in a preface to some of his chief treasures. He no longer owns the famous Talbot Prayer-Book—which has found a home in the United States—but he still has in his possession several early liturgical books of English manufacture, and also mss. of Wyclif, Chaucer, Gower, and the unique Towneley mysteries. Italian, French, and German art is magnificently represented; among these we may specially mention a superb vellum of the "Roman de la Rose," dated circa 1475. Greek and Latin classics are less conspicuous; for, to tell the truth, they are less valued by collectors. But the first lot of all is a Greek codex of the Gospels, of the tenth century, which was brought from Cyprus by Major Alessandro Cesnola; and there are several Latin Bibles of the twelfth to the fifteenth century.—Henry Stevens & Son, 39 Gt. Russell St., London, W. C., Second clearance list of Americana. (891 titles.)—D. Van Nostrand Company, 23 Murray St., N. Y., Works on chemistry, chemical technology, and physics. (56 p. 8°.)—Edgar A. Werner, 35 Chestnut St., Albany, N. Y., Miscellaneous. (No. 2, 1066 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

F. W. HELMICK, 265 Sixth Avenue, N. Y., has published a song and chorus by Alberto Himan, entitled "The Girl Across the Way."

DELMONICO's veteran chef, Charles Ranhofer, will publish by subscription a cook-book, which he promises will contain 1200 octavo pages, embracing 3700 recipes, and embellished with 800 engravings.

THE CHAIN & HARDY COMPANY, Denver, Col., will publish at once "The Right of Appropriation," being the law of water for irrigation in the Western arid region. It will be uniform in size and price with Morrison's "Mining Rights."

THE SCHULTE PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, are reporting a boom on Art Young's clever parody on Dante's immortal work. "Hell Up to Date," notwithstanding its title, is well worth reading, and when once better known is bound to sell well.

GINN & Co. will publish in March a book entitled "Latin at Sight," by Prof. Edwin Post, of De Pauw University. They will publish in April "A Preparatory German Reader," with notes and vocabulary, prepared for beginners by Mr. A. N. Van Daell.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, N. Y., the publisher of "Sanctified Spice; or, pungent seasonings from the pulpit," by Madison C. Peters, pastor of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, has just brought out a new edition of this book which has met with such a ready sale that the price has been reduced from $1.50 to $1.

ANDREW D. MELLICK, JR., the author of the interesting and valuable "Story of an Old Farm," has lately grangerized a copy of his work, enlarging it to three handsome volumes. He has used for the purpose a notable collection of Colonial and Revolutionary mss., together with quantities of portraits and prints, old and new.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will issue at once their long-promised edition of Schiller's "Wilhelm Tell," with introduction and notes by Prof. R. W. Deering, of Western Reserve University. They have in press for immediate issue a "Short French Grammar," by C. H. Grandgent, director of modern language instruction in the public schools of Boston.

COPELAND & DAY, 69 Cornhill, Boston, who have just issued a charming edition of the unpurgated version of Rossetti's "House of Life," have in preparation an equally handsome edition of "The Imitation of Christ," to be issued in four books, unabridged with page-size and initial letters fac-similed from those in the original ms. preserved in the Royal Library of Brussels.

At the instance of Dr. William Seward Webb, the correspondence and journals of his grandfather, Samuel Blatchley Webb, an officer and prisoner of the Revolution, have been collected and edited by Worthington C. Ford, in three volumes, royal octavo. The work contains a number of finely engraved portraits. One hundred of the 350 sets printed are offered for sale to the public through Charles H. Burnett, 51 E. 44th St., New York City.

EDW. J. NIEUWLAND, Sr., 1962 Amsterdam Ave., New York City, has published a "Claim-selling Placard," which he commends to store-keepers who wish by "a practical, passive, peaceful, and economical medium to offer for sale, cheap, their just claims to overdue debts against those of their debtors who can pay them, and persist in not meeting their obligations promptly." The placard is 12 x 18½ inches in size, clearly printed, and retails for 25 cents.

MRS. ELIZABETH HILL BISSELL ROBERTS has made an admirable English translation of Victor Cherbuliez's "A Phidian Horse," which combines the essential characteristics of the novel and profound reflections upon art and philosophy, with a felicity possible only to French skill and penetration. Hand in hand go an earnest investigation of the methods and aims of the Greeks in art, and a romance of a beautiful marchioness, devoted to the study of the antique. The book may be had through John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia.

THE advertising poster is fast becoming a work of art. In Paris the colored cartoons of M. Jules Chéret, proclaiming the virtues of hair restoratives and the graces of concert-hall singers, are eagerly sought by collectors, rare sorts bringing prices varying from twenty-five to one hundred francs. The mania for collecting show-bills has reached this country, and Harper & Brothers are said to have received so many requests for the series of monthly colored posters of Harper's Magazine that no more sets are obtainable.

F. HENRY GREER, whose name has been connected with such works as "Men of Progress," "Men of Mark," "American Homes," etc., and with such concerns as The International Press Department of the London and Hartford Publishing Company of Jersey City, sometimes also known as the London, New York and Hartford Publishing Company, of 122 East 26th Street, New York, and elsewhere, is denounced by Senator Palmer, Theodore Havemeyer, and others, for attempting to obtain money under false pretences.

THE papers presented at the International Congress of Charities, Correction, and Philanthropy, held at Chicago, June 12-18, 1893, are now in preparation for publication at the Johns Hopkins Press. These papers, brought together and arranged by the committee on publication appointed by the congress, will appear in five octavo volumes of about five hundred pages each, and the series promises to be the most interesting and complete collection of information on vital questions of charitable, reformatory, and philanthropic work that has so far appeared in this country. The papers were presented by the leading thinkers and workers in these special fields in Europe and America, and embody the latest experiences and conclusions. The subjects covered in the volumes are: Charity organization; Sociology as a special topic in institutions of learning; The insane; Hospitals, dispensaries, and nursing; Neglected, abandoned, and dependent children; Crime and criminals; The treatment of feeble-minded children; The public treatment of pauperism. It is expected that the volumes on Hospital work, Charity organization, Sociological study, and Insanity will be published in January or soon after. Some of the volumes will contain two subjects. The edition is limited and volumes are sold singly or in sets.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD has issued three interesting pamphlets. One is a memorial of the centenary of the birth of Henry C. Carey, the first advocate of the policy of protection in America, and the founder of the present house of Henry Carey Baird & Co. It contains tributes to Carey's life and work by Robert Ellis Thompson, David H. Mason, James M. Swank, and others, reprinted from the periodicals in which they first appeared. The centennial anniversary of Carey's birth was December 15, 1893. He was born in Philadelphia, and succeeded his father, Mathew Carey, as head of the publishing house established by Mathew Carey in 1785, and still continued by his descendants. From 1836 until his death in 1879, Carey devoted himself to the study of political economy, and his writings were among the most important contributions to the literature of protection. The other pamphlets are devoted to the currency question, and are reprints of communications addressed by Henry Carey Baird to various periodicals on "The Silver Purchases of 1878-1893 as a Saving Fund for Labor Power," and "The United States Before the Passage of the Silver Bill of Feb. 28, 1878." This house has also just issued a very complete catalogue of books and pamphlets on social science, noticed elsewhere.

THE case of J. Ward Gamble vs. Hubbard Brothers of Philadelphia was decided in favor of the defendant. The story of the case came out in the defence. Mr. Hubbard alleged that Gamble came to him with what he claimed to be an exceedingly choice collection of matter written or spoken by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, which had been published without being copyrighted. Relying on these representations, Mr. Hubbard alleged, he agreed to publish it, and give Mr. Gamble his note for $1000. After some delay the book was taken up for work, and the true condition of affairs was discovered. Mr. Hubbard asserted that not only had the work been unskillfully prepared, to such a degree that other persons had to be employed to fix it up, entailing a large amount of work, but that it was devoid of the value represented, because it was found that much of the material had been cut out, pages together, from books which had been published and copyrighted. The notes in suit were given for the purchase of the manuscript, together with others, making up the $1000, but the others, it was stated, had been transferred to third persons, and have been paid. Mr. Hubbard alleged that had he continued with the publication he would have become liable to litigation for infringing on copyrights, and as he had, by reason of the falsity of the representations made, been put to expense and loss which exceeded the amount of the notes, he was not indebted to Mr. Gamble.

FOREIGN NOTES.

FROM the sales of the foreign rights of each of their new books it is said that Daudet and Zola receive each about $6000.

THE present London edition of Thomas Hardy's "Tess" is said to have reached a sale of 23,000 copies. A new collection of Hardy's "Wessex Tales" will be issued shortly.

VICTOR SCHOELCHER'S "Life of Toussaint l'Ouverture" is being translated by Mr. Theodore Stanton of the Paris Galvani. Frederick Douglass has written an introduction for the book.

THE niece of Guy de Maupassant has inherited all his MS. and note-books. Last year the copyright royalties on the works of the dead novelist produced $8000. It is estimated that they will yield about $6000 annually.

As a souvenir for their friends, Elkin Mathews & John Lane, London, have printed a dainty little quarto pamphlet, containing an anonymous prose fancy on "Limited Editions," together with a sonnet entitled "Confessio Amantis," by Mr. R. Le Gallienne.

WILLIAM WATSON has entirely recovered from his recent attack of mental aberration, and is writing once more with all his accustomed grace and charm. His new poems, among which are some very powerful sonnets, will soon be published in the London papers, and have been already copyrighted in America.

WITH reference to the supposed new work by Charles Lamb, "Cupid's Revenge," a correspondent writes to the London Literary World, reminding it that a tale with that title, founded on the plot of Beaumont and Fletcher's play bearing the same name, is included in Bell and Daldy's edition of "Lamb's Essays," 1867.

ELLIOT STOCK, London, will publish directly the seventh volume of "Book Prices Current." This year's issue will contain particulars of auction sales that have taken place from December, 1892, to November last. In that time about 50,000 lots were disposed of, realizing a total amount of £66,470, which may be considered a fair average.

BELL & SONS have just issued in their Ex Libris Series a limited edition of Albert Dürer's "Little Passion," printed from stereotypes taken from the original wood-blocks, which are in the British Museum. An attempt has been made to reproduce as nearly as possible the second Nuremberg edition of 1511. Austin Dobson has written an introduction, and the volume is uniform with his edition of Holbein's "Dance of Death" in the same series. A photogravure reproduction of Dürer's portrait of himself forms the frontispiece.

At the December meeting of the London Bibliographical Society Mr. J. H. Isaacs read a paper "On a New Edition of Lowndes' Bibliographer's Manual." The speaker estimated that with the aid of the society it would be completed in six years, and include American books published before 1780. In the discussion which followed Messrs. Copinger (the president of the society), J. H. Slater, Jenkinson, A. Huth, B. Wheatley, Almack, and Baldock took part. The general opinion was that the work, while well worth doing, would require an even longer time than that estimated by Mr. Isaacs.

PRIOR to his last illness the late Henry Vizetelly had prepared the materials for a further series of his reminiscences. Mr. Vizetelly still had to tell the story of his career from the time of the Franco-German War to his retirement subsequent to the Zola prosecution. By his express desire this task will now be undertaken by his son, Ernest Vizetelly, who was his constant companion, not only in Paris during the siege and Commune, but also in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Spain, Portugal, etc. The new volume will contain a full account of Mr. Vizetelly's prosecution for publishing translations of Zola's novels, and in this connection many curious circumstances will for the first time be made public.

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & Co. will publish at once a work on "Early Editions: a biographical survey of the works of some popular modern authors," by J. H. Slater, editor of "Book Prices Current." The work deals with the writings of Robert Browning, Mrs. Browning, Thackeray, Dickens, Coventry Patmore, Richard Jefferies, R. L. Stevenson, Andrew Lang, A. C. Swinburne, Leigh Hunt, Douglas Jerrold, George Augustus Sala, and others, and regards only such books as, by reason of their scarcity, are now in demand at enhanced prices by the present-day collector. These will be fully described and appraised, with special reference to the protection of the collector from spurious editions and imperfect copies. A large-paper edition, limited to one hundred and fifty numbered and signed copies, is being prepared for subscribers, to be issued before the publication of the ordinary edition.

THE forthcoming volume of Henry Stevens'

"Fac-similes of Manuscripts in European Archives Relating to America, 1773-1783," covers but little more than two months of the year 1777, that critical period being productive of much correspondence at the court of France. The letters from Count de Vergennes to the Marquis d'Ossun and the Marquis de Noailles, French ambassadors in Madrid and London respectively, lay bare the policy of his court with an exactitude which no other historical papers afford. One document is a formal and elaborately worded reply from Spain to the memorial of the American deputies for support and assistance, given in the preceding volume of Mr. Stevens' "Fac-similes." Lord Stormont's letters are continued. Amongst others from Beaumarchais is one narrating, over a very shaky signature, the accident which befell him when returning from Passy with M. Grand, the banker, after hearing the news, brought from Congress by Mr. Austin, of the surrender of Burgoyne. There may also be noticed the reproduction of the seal used by Dr. Franklin in Paris (1728), and of one belonging to Arthur Lee (1713); that of the third commissioner, Silas Deane, has been given in previous volumes.

WE have received a pamphlet describing the festivities incident to the three hundredth anniversary in September, 1893, of the founding of the Josef Kösel Publishing House in Kempten, Bavaria. It seems almost incredible that a firm should exist three hundred years without any cessation whatever of its active business interests. The business was founded in 1593 by Erhard Blarer von Wartensee, an abbot-prince of Kempten, and until the beginning of this century was chiefly celebrated as a printing establishment, having its quarters in the royal residence at Kempten, and being run by foremen and overseers who, every year, were obliged to report to the reigning abbot-prince, and submit their accounts, which also covered the administration of a large paper-mill in Hegge, near Kempten. These overseers had a fixed salary, and were considered royal officers. One of them, Josef Kösel, after the secularization of the royal Abbey of Kempten in 1800, came into possession of the business in 1805. One of his heirs, Nikolaus Bail, inherited the business in 1825, and after his death in 1833 it came into the hands of his business manager, Johann Huber, of whom the present head, Ludwig Huber, is a direct descendant. His reign began in 1872, and since then the business has assumed much greater proportions. He has erected a magnificent building, and introduced all the latest improvements in presses and machinery. The specialties of the firm are Roman Catholic books of devotion, which it turns out in incredible quantities at fabulously low prices. The young son of the proprietor made the address of the day. The heads of the various branches of the business all greeted their chief with appropriate speeches. Mr. Frederick Pustet, of Regensburg, a brother-in-law of Mr. Huber, and senior of the house represented in this country, was present at the festival and contributed 1200 marks to a newly created pension fund for the employees of the Kösel establishment. A great dinner, attended by all the important citizens and representatives from many publishing houses, was the chief feature of the day. All the employees were also given a sumptuous repast.

MACMILLAN & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

JUST PUBLISHED. PROF. J. NORMAN LOCKYER'S NEW AND IMPORTANT WORK.

THE DAWN OF ASTRONOMY:

A STUDY OF THE TEMPLE WORSHIP AND MYTHOLOGY OF THE ANCIENT EGYPTIANS.

With numerous illustrations and full-page plates. By J. NORMAN LOCKYER, F.R.S., author of "The Meteoritic Hypothesis," "The Chemistry of the Sun," etc. Royal 8vo, $5.00.

* In this work the author embodies the result of attempts he has recently made to ascertain "the early astronomical views of the Egyptians by a study of their temples, and the mythology connected with the various cults." Full of striking fact and suggestion in what is a new field of inquiry, it appeals alike to the student of astronomy, archæology, and mythology, as well as to readers taking only a general interest in these subjects.

TWO important handbooks for the Bookseller.

ORDER NOW:

ANNUAL CATALOGUES, 1893.

The Annual American Catalogue for 1893 contains:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1893.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author-alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1893.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1893.

The edition is limited, and to secure copies orders should be sent at once. The price is $3.50 half leather; $3.00 in sheets.

The Annual Catalogue for 1886 and 1887 is now out of print. But few copies of the Annual Catalogue for 1888, 1889, 1890 and 1891 are on hand.

We also supply the English Catalogue for 1893, price $1.50, paper; the Annual American and English Catalogues, 1892, can be had in one volume, half leather, $5.00.

NEARLY READY:

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, ...1893...

INCLUDING PERIODICALS, AMERICAN AND ENGLISH, ESSAYS, BOOK-CHAPTERS, ETC.,
SPECIAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES AND NECROLOGY OF AUTHORS.

EDITED BY W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER,

With the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1893 complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books published in 1893 by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published in 1892; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1892; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies of 1892; (5) authors deceased in 1892. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

The new volume includes the features of the "Co-operative Index to Periodicals," originally a monthly supplement to the Library Journal, then extended into a quarterly in an enlarged form, and later issued as an annual volume.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1893 forms the second supplement both to the new five-yearly volume (1887-1891) of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature and to the new A. L. A. Index to essays and book-chapters of Mr. Fletcher.

The new volume will more than fulfil the opinion as to the Co-operative Index expressed in the following extract:

"To the literary worker its value can hardly be over-estimated; to the specialist in any branch of science or letters it is indispensable, since it places within his immediate reach many of the latest fruits of labor in the same field. To every one who desires to be well informed it furnishes the means of making the most effective use of his time."—Providence Press.

One vol., cloth, (uniform with "A. L. A. Index,") $3.50.

Early orders for the above are solicited.

* SPECIAL NOTICE. *

Sale of the Valuable American Historical Library

OF THE
HON. FREDERICK BOURQUIN,

OF

CATALOGUE (PART 1) NOW READY.

Embracing Histories of the States, Histories of Cities, Towns, and Counties, American Church History, American Revolutionary History, Works relating to Arnold and Andre, American Genealogies, Early American Bibles, Prayer and Hymn Books, Travels and Explorations in the United States, and Washingtoniana, and will be sold by STAN. V. HENKELS at the Book Auction Rooms of THOS. BIRCH'S SONS, 1110 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Wednesday and Thursday, February 14 and 15, 1894. Afternoons at 2:30 o'clock. Evenings at 8 o'clock.

Catalogues can be had of Francis P. Harper, 17 East 16th Street, New York, J. S. Bradley, Jr., No. 1 Pine Street, New York, or by addressing Stan. V. Henkels, 1110 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Note.—This library was formed by Mr. Bourquin during the last sixty-five years, and he enjoys to-day the distinction of being the last living pioneer collector. He did not devote his attention to collecting early printed books (although in his peregrinations he gathered together not a few early American imprints, some of which appear in this catalogue), but more generally to obtain the histories of the various States, Counties, Towns, etc., of this country, also material connected with the Revolutionary War, Wars of 1812, 1848, and the late Rebellion, American Travels and Explorations, Indian History, Biographies, Genealogies, the best work on Ornithology, etc., and we can truthfully say that this is really the best and most useful American Historical Library that has ever come under our observation, and will afford an opportunity to collectors and librarians to obtain many volumes that will seldom, if ever, be offered in this way again.

Part 2 of the Catalogue is now being prepared, and will include the Books Relating to the War of the Rebellion, War of 1812, Mexican War, Early Indian History, General American History, Ornithology, etc. Those desiring same will send address to Stan. V. Henkels.

Rare Autograph Letters and Historical Papers.

THE WELL-KNOWN COLLECTION OF THE LATE

COL. CHAS. C. JONES, OF AUGUSTA, GA.,

Will be sold by STAN. V. HENKELS, at the Book Auction Rooms of THOS. BIRCH'S SONS, Philadelphia, about the middle of April.

It was our intention to make this sale in February, but in preparing the material for catalogue we have become so impressed with the importance of the collection that we find we could not do justice to the estate by having the catalogue ready before April. Some idea of the value of the collection can be obtained when we mention a full set of the Signers to the Declaration of Independence, full set of the Members of the Constitutional Convention, nearly a full set of the Presidents and Members of the Continental Congress, full set of the Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the United States, full set of the Rulers and Governors of Georgia, many important letters of the Revolutionary Generals, Early and Revolutionary Broad-sides. Many of the above letters are of the utmost historical importance. Also an exceedingly interesting collection of Rare American Portraits, Views, Maps, etc., including several fine Ivory Miniatures of Revolutionary Characters.

Those desiring Catalogue will send name and address to Stan. V. Henkels, Philadelphia, Pa.

Rare Books

AND CHOICE EDITIONS OF THE STANDARD AUTHORS IN FINE BINDINGS,

Embracing a Full Set of the First Editions of the Novels and Tales of CHARLES DICKENS and
WM. M. THACKERAY,

THE LIBRARY OF A GENTLEMAN OF PHILADELPHIA,

Will be sold about the latter end of February by STAN. V. HENKELS.

Send name and address for Catalogue, and mention for what sale, to Stan. V. Henkels, Philadelphia, Pa.

TWO NOTEWORTHY BOOKS.

Nineteenth Thousand.

Authorized American Edition Reprinted from the 16th English Edition.

SHIPS THAT PASS IN THE NIGHT.

A Novel. By BEATRICE HARRADEN. 16mo, $1.00.

"Ships that pass in the night, and speak each other in passing,
Only a signal shewn, and a distant voice in the darkness;
So, on the ocean of life, we pass and speak one another,
Only a look and a voice, then darkness again and silence."

"Ships that pass in the night has made its success by purely legitimate methods. . . . The author has a story to tell, a theory to work out, a belief to impart, and that is all—except the important item that she is a good writer, keen and wise in observation and style, liberal and sympathetic in temperament. . . . I sat up half the night to finish the book."—JEANNETTE L. GILDER in the World.

Fourth Thousand.

THE RELIGION OF A LITERARY MAN.

By RICHARD LE GALLIENNE. 12mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Le Gallienne has produced a book well worth reading, particularly (so at least we should say) by those who are most disposed to differ with him. . . . The author treats of the hereafter with great courage, and says a good many things well worthy of the utmost attention. . . . The book is certainly a remarkable one, and we urge our readers not to trust to any second-hand account, but to make themselves acquainted with its contents by the ancient method of perusal."—London Speaker.

"Probably the sunniest book on religion ever published."—London Star.

WORKED A YEAR.

YOUR LAST CHANCE TO PROFIT BY IT.

The "Catalogue of all American Paper-Covered Books," on which work has been in progress for a year, is now about completed, and will within a month go into the printer's hands, and all who wish a copy and have not entered their name for it should do so at once. The edition is limited, as has been heretofore announced, and only those actually subscribed for now will be published.

This Catalogue will be as complete as it is possible to make such a book, and will embrace in exact alphabetical order every paper-covered book published and in print in America, as well as a great many imported into this country and kept in stock by American agencies of various English publishers. Each book will be entered in the Catalogue twice, under its full title and under the author's name, so you can find out all about any book if you know the title or who wrote it.

It will contain full and correct title, with author's name, name of publisher, name of "library" or "series" in which it is published, its serial number and the retail price of all obtainable paper-covered books, as stated above. Even if a book is published by several publishers, all editions will be given, so the most profitable or otherwise preferable can be ordered.

(An annual supplement will be published, giving for a few cents easy access to all later books.)

Price of the Catalogue, properly bound in flexible cloth, with patent index cut in the edges, $3.50.

The same, interleaved edition, many blank pages for future entries, if you care to keep it up to date, $5.00.

INSPIRATION:

Eight Lectures on the Early History and Origin of the Doctrine of Biblical Inspiration. By the Rev. W. SANDAY, M.A., D.D., LL.D., Dean Ireland's Professor of Exegesis, Fellow of Exeter College, Oxford. 8vo, $4.00.

. . . The present publishing season has at least produced one really remarkable and valuable book in Dr. Sanday's Bampton Lectures. It is in substance an answer to the question, "What is the Bible and what are we to think of it?" . . . A really good book such as this, on such a subject, is sure to be read by theologians and the clergy. We trust it will be pressed upon the attention of students in theological colleges, for its position is one they should at least understand.

THE COMMUNION OF SAINTS:

A Lost Link in the Chain of the Church's Creed. By the Rev. WYLLYS REDE, M.A. With a preface by Lord Halifax. Crown 8vo, $1.25.

"Polished in style and deeply reverent in tone, we can cordially recommend it both as an introduction to the study of a most important subject, and a book full of comfort and peace for those whose ties are with another world rather than with this. The book is full of beautiful thoughts founded on Scripture. . . ."—The National Church.
